BETTER "L" SERVICE.

That Is What Brooklyn Seems to Be Solely in Need Of.

Walking Declared Preferable to Riding on the "L."

Uncleanliness and Discomfort Features of the Present Management.

I always walk home from the end of the bridge, nowadays," said a Brooklyn citizen the other day. "I used to take the train and make better time, as a rule, than I would by taking the elevated. There is always such a jam and crush for the cars during the long home hours in the evening that I prefer walking to the trouble and annoying inconveniences on the 'L' roads."

ONSET OF THE CROWNERS DISEASE, OR CONSUMPTION.

"Being, as you see, somewhat corpulent I cannot run pel-mel up and down stairs and through passage-ways to be among the first to get to the trains, so as to secure a seat. And if you don't hurry you must wait on a strap, which is likely enough to get one. There are never enough coaches on the trains to accommodate passengers and the result is a awful squeeze, so being tired of comfort, I have abandoned the elevated trains, and I shall not patronize them again until I can get value received."
